How do we measure school climate, and the research-supported practices for achieving a positive school climate?

- Multi-component evaluation process
  - DE School Climate Survey: Student, Teacher/Staff, and Home
  - DE Assessment of Strengths and Needs for Positive Behavior Support (DASNPBS)
  - DE-PBS Key Features Evaluation

---

---

---

Why is school climate important?

School Climate is linked to a wide range of academic, behavioral, and socio-emotional outcomes for students:

- Academic achievement
- Student academic, social, and personal attitudes and motives
- Delinquency
- Behavior problems

10

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

UNIVERSITY of DELAWARE

School Climate, if problematic, contributes to negative outcomes:

- Bullying victimization
- Attendance and school avoidance
- Depression and self-esteem

11

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

UNIVERSITY of DELAWARE

Bullying and special education

- Students receiving special education services are at increased risk for both being bullied and for bullying others
- Programming should be consistently implemented across general and special education and be part of inclusive curriculum
- Suggest social emotional learning initiatives to create culture of respect and acceptance

12

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

School Climate also is linked to outcomes for teachers:

- Less burnout and greater retention in the profession
- Greater implementation fidelity of new curriculum and interventions
- Greater levels of job satisfaction

 UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

School Climate Reports

- Types of scores reported:
  - Standard Score (for comparing school's scores to those of other schools, with a score of 100 being average)
  - Average Item Score (for each subscale: tells us if the score is favorable or unfavorable, irrespective of how it compares to scores for other schools)
  - Frequency Score (tells us the percentage of respondents who agreed or disagreed with item)
- Because the last two scores are used in this report, they are discussed in the next three slides.

22

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

 UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

Average Item Scores

- Sum of scores for all items on a subscale, divided by that subscale's number of items
- For Parts I & II and Engagement Items in Part III, scores can range from 1 (Strongly Disagree) to 4 (Strongly Agree)

For example:

- 4 items on a subscale
- The scores on the items = 4, 4, 3, 3
- Therefore, the average score =  $14/4 = 3.5$

23

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

 UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

- Scores at or above 3.0 as very favorable and scores at or below 2.5 as very unfavorable. Scores between 2.6 and 2.9 should be of some concern (depends on grade level).
- An exception, however, are scores on the Use of Punitive Techniques subscale. In this subscale, high scores are generally viewed as less favorable (noting greater use of punishment).
- Another exception are Bullying Items on Part III where students respond on a 6-point scale from "Never" to "Everyday"

24

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

Frequency Scores

- Number and percentage of responses to individual items
- For example:
  - 37% of the student sample responded “Strongly Agree” to item 5

This helps schools interpret their subscale scores by identifying items that caused the score to be low (or high).

Quick Review of Evidence of Reliability and Validity

Reliability:

- Are the scores consistent, or stable?

Validity:

- Does the test yield the factors predicted?
- Are the scores related to other variables how we might expect (e.g., grade level, sex and race, academic achievement, suspensions)?

UNIVERSITY of DELAWARE New This Year: Two Lie Items

"I am telling the truth in this survey."
"I answered all items truthfully on this survey."

Results:
7.5% (2,637) disagreed to 1 of 2 items and thus were deleted.
(Additional 1% dropped due to incomplete responses.)
"Liars" scored significantly lower, BUT their removal had very little impact on overall scores (about 1 tenth of a point)

Preventing Bullying

Where to start?

1st step

“Assess school prevention and intervention efforts around student behavior, including substance use and violence. You may be able to build upon them or integrate bullying prevention strategies. Many programs help address the same protective and risk factors that bullying programs do.”

Focus on School Climate

“Given the overwhelming evidence that school climate is a critical factor for increased (or decreased) levels of bullying, all school personnel should be aware of elements that contribute to a positive school climate.”
(Swearer, et al., 2012, p. 184)

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

School Climate's Relationship with Bullying (and Self-Discipline) is RECIPROCAL

Thus, improving school climate is likely to reduce bullying and develop self-discipline, and vice versa

72

 UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

---

School Climate

- Very similar factors influence, and are influenced by, school discipline (including self-discipline) and school climate.
- Research shows many of the same strategies influence both school discipline and school climate, and they are reciprocally related.

Bullying Prevention

- Same strategies for improving school discipline (including self-discipline) and school climate apply to preventing bullying.

4 major reviews of bullying prevention programs:

- 3 found either nonsignificant or small effects of prevention programs, especially for curriculum packages and social skills training
- Most recent and comprehensive review of 44 program evaluations (Ttofi & Farrington, 2011):
- Overall, bullying and victimization were decreased about 20%

Least effective component, particularly with respect to victimization: “work with peers” (i.e., peer mediation, peer mentoring, and encouraging bystander intervention).

CAUTION: This does NOT mean these components shouldn't be included, but that they are not sufficient nor the best area of focus in prevention.

75

UNIVERSITY of DELAWARE

Most effective components:

- authoritative disciplinary methods and classroom management, including classroom rules and whole-school anti-bullying policy
- parent training/meetings
- improved playground supervision
- teacher training, school conferences (e.g., assemblies) information for parents
- videos on bullying and victimization (as part of curriculum),
- cooperative group work

76

Authors also recommended:

- more individual work with bullies and victims
- more work with families

77

---

---

---

---

---

---

UNIVERSITY of DELAWARE

Additional Findings:

- More elements and longer duration > greater effects
- Olweus inspired programs tended to work best, except in the U.S.
- More effective with older students (included ages 6-14)
- (Other studies also show that fidelity of implementation matters and that programs implemented by researchers tend to be more effective.)

78

Given these findings on bullying, it makes sense to integrate features of SWPBS and SEL

1. Provides a comprehensive approach
2. Is consistent with a wealth of research on effective classroom management, schoolwide discipline, and childrearing
3. More likely to improve school climate.

Why emphasize authoritative approach?

Both theory and research also show that Responsiveness (support) and Demandingness (structure) are two essential dimensions of school discipline, school climate, and bullying prevention).

Why an emphasis on relationships?

- In addition to positive relationships being related to a number of positive outcomes:
- Improvements in positive outcomes are mediated by improvements in teacher–student relationships and the school environment
- Supported by our results

- A positive school climate that includes supportive teacher-student and student-student relationships (and family relationships) also helps buffer bullying victims from negative outcomes related to their being bullied (Swearer, Collings, Fluke, & Stawhun, 2012)
- Thus, relationships are very important not only in preventing bullying, but also in responding

Student-Student Relationships

Bullying is typically a group phenomenon

(Swearer et al., 2012)

Implications for bullying prevention?

- Must target peer norms, values, beliefs, acceptance, including bystanders (reinforcers, defenders, and passive bystanders)
- Bullies tend to be popular (depending on norms), victims unpopular (and worse as bullying progresses)
- One function of bullying is to gain social status
- Often difficult, but very important to rally support of popular students

In Addition to Research, Be Guided by Your Own Data

- Data are key to:
  - Increasing awareness
  - Understanding areas of concern and to focus efforts accordingly
  - Evaluating impact
- Multiple sources: School climate data, bullying data, ODRs

10 Tips for Preventing and Reducing Bullying

1. Focus on the two key aspects of effective classroom management: Structure/Demandingness and Support/Responsiveness.
2. Respond immediately to all acts of bullying (verbal, physical, social, and cyberbullying).
3. Build and maintain positive and supportive relationships, including teacher-student, student-student, and family-school relationships.
4. Have clear, consistent school-wide and classroom rules and policies against all forms of bullying.
5. Teach “bystanders” important roles they can play in preventing bullying by not supporting it and actively stopping it (where appropriate and when it is safe to do so).

6. Teach students (including bystanders) how to respond when bullied.
7. Teach specific lessons on bullying including its effects on victims, bullies, and the general school climate.
8. Increase supervision and monitoring in places where bullying most often occurs, such as the playground, hallways, cafeteria, and bus.
9. Provide individual and small-group services and supports to bullies and their victims.
10. Overall, work toward establishing school-wide and classroom norms that prevent bullying.
